Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions on it.

Once upon a time, there was a boy called Pawpaw. He lived in the small village of Babana near the sea. He was never allowed to go out to sea alone. But one day when everybody was singing and dancing, he went to sea in a canoe all by himself. He thought that he could go off and come back quickly, and no one would find out. He said to himself. "I shall go out a bit, but not too far,".

Unluckily for Pawpaw, there was a storm that day. The sea became rough and the canoe was tossed from side to side. He fell and hit his head against the side of the canoe and fainted. When he opened his eyes, he was lying down in the canoe, surrounded by different types of fish. Some wore coats and trousers, others wore agbada and other styles of dress. The fishes were bigger than Pawpaw, and they were talking. They all looked at him in anger. He was afraid and said in a small voice, "Where am I?" They all replied "You are at the bottom of the sea, with the pirates of Babana".
